

StoryPhones

Developing speaking and listening skills is critical for all children. Now, with StoryPhones, you can encourage these skills with the latest digital technology. The complete audio system allows children aged 3-7 to listen in a variety of ways to stories, music, songs and games. The record function develops speaking as well as listening skills.

Individual MP3 Headset

Remote console—loud speaking MP3 Player with recording

Listen Anywhere

- Indoors or outside making audio ICT more flexible and easy to use
- No more tangled wires and tapes
- Listen to music, songs, stories, listen and do activities or other languages

Listen Independently

- Focus on listening with no distractions
- Automatic Play Control makes the Headsets accessible for all children

Listen in Groups

- Use the Headsets and Remote Console together
- Use for adult led, focused learning
- Develop social skills and peer learning when the children listen together

Listen out Loud

- Listen to music and stories in larger groups
- Create opportunities for dancing and singing

Record

- Record your own activities, treasure hunts, songs and stories using the Remote Console
- Children can record themselves for up to 8 hours
- Allow children to listen to themselves, each other or create podcasts

“All of the children, including my reluctant readers, loved using StoryPhones to read Books.”

Anne Metcalf, KS1 Teacher, South Stanley Infants.

Using StoryPhones Will...

- Embed audio resources and ICT into all areas of Early Years Curriculums
- Allow practitioners to use audio ICT for literacy, music, MFL, numeracy, speaking and listening
- Create opportunities for inclusion for children with SEN, speech and language difficulties and EAL
- Provide an alternative means of assessment and tracking
- Allow children to share their recordings with parents on virtual learning platforms and via email

Audio Content

- Provided by the StoryPhones Education Team and existing publishers and providers
- Listen and do activities are linked to EYFS, National Strategies and Scottish Curriculum
- Content can be bought via the online StoryPhones bookshop
- Upload your own CDs and tapes and add them to the StoryPhones bookshelf

The StoryPhones Bookshelf Software

- Stores all of your audio content – no more lost CDs or tapes
- Manages the settings on your players
- Allows you to select and upload content on to one, all, or any combination of players
